Bethlehem has 'Best Main Street' for second year

USA Today has announced that Bethlehem's Main Street is the best in the country for the second consecutive year. USA Today Editor Magale Flynn wrote, "These nominations were carefully selected by a panel of subject matter experts and USA Today's editors before being voted on by the public, so you've earned some serious bragging rights."

USA TODAY
Historic Hotel Bethlehem's General Manager Kelly Ronaldi said, "Our local community already knows Bethlehem's Main Street is better than any other in the country. The hotel's marketing team created a campaign to support this year's Best Main Street competition. The 'Our Star Spangled All Year Round' initiative demonstrated that while Bethlehem is well-known as a Christmas destination, there are great reasons to visit all year long."

Bethlehem Area Public Library March 28. Though the book festival was held at the library, hundreds came for annual reflection of Japanese culture at the Torabayashi Shrine. Traditional drummers of Iroha Taiko, a drumming group from Lyons, entertained a crowd of 400, filling the clear afternoon air with accented beats from Japan.
